THE LARGEST GOLD MINE KNOWN

The CAUCASIAN has received a prospectus of the gold mining properties of the California King Gold Mines Company, which we admit, is most interesting and fascinating from any point of view. The mines owned by this company, which are described in the prospectus, are not new mines. They are the well known Pico mine located in the Pico Basin in the lower part of California near the Colorado River and about twenty-five miles north of Yuma, Arizona.

The prospectus shows that the property owned by this company consists of twenty-three mining claims with a surface area of between four and five hundred acres. While these mines have been well known for a long time and have been for many years the property of the largest stockholders in the California King Gold Mining Company, yet it is one of those large, low grade ore mines which could not be mined with much profit twenty or even ten years ago. The thing that has made this great low grade ore mine and other similar mines spring into great importance and value has been the discovery of the processes known as the "Cyanide process" and the "Cyanide process," which makes it possible, when the other conditions are favorable, to work very low grade ore mines with great profit, provided the quantity of the ore is sufficient.

It is not generally known that the recent great increase in the world's supply of gold has not come from the working of the mines that have become famous on account of the richness of their ore, and which have always been limited in quantity, but from the opening up and developing of the large number of low grade ore mines by the recently discovered process above referred to, which in the past could not be worked with profit. Only a small percent of this large increase of gold in the last few years have come from the famous Klondike and Cape Nome regions in Alaska. The newspapers have advertised the richness of the ore veins in these mines in Alaska to such an extent that the public generally has been led to believe that the recent great output of the precious metal has come from these and a few other rich mines, but nothing is further from the fact.

It will not doubt astonish our readers when we state the fact that over ninety percent of the more than $68,000,000 of gold and other precious metals produced in Montana during the last year came not from the mines containing rich ore, (which alone could be worked at a profit a few years ago) but came from this class of low grade ore mines, which a few years ago, were practically worthless on account of the cost of getting the gold from the ore, notwithstanding there were large deposits of the ore.

This Cyanide process not only made it possible to open up nearly all these low grade ore mines but it has enabled the owners of the rich mines, in many cases, to more than double their profit by using this process to get the waste gold out of what is known as waste tailings, from the mills, which in the past has been thrown away. A case in point is the famous Drummond mine near Helena, Montana. This has been considered a wonderfully rich mine, yet last year by the Cyanide treatment of the waste tailings the owners of that mine made more from the waste than from the rich ore taken from the mine and worked by the old process. This will give to the public some conception of the wonderful revolution that this Cyanide process is working and will continue to work in the gold mining world, to say nothing of the wonderful effect it will have upon the financial condition of the world by the great increase of the yellow metal under the gold standard.

The Cyanide process above referred to is simply a dissolving of fine gold, (which would go out with the waste tailings and be lost by the ordinary process) by a dilute solution of Cyanide of potassium and the subsequent precipitation of the gold from the solution of Cyanide with fine zinc shavings. The crushed ore, whether taken from the low grade mine or whether gathered up as a waste tailings are simply put into a large vat and treated with the solution as above, which dissolves and squeezes or sucks out, as it were, from the ore every particle of gold that it contains, however small, then by the precipitation as above referred to the gold is deposited in the bottom of the vat as a metal. This is a very inexpensive process and besides the machinery and buildings necessary are all inexpensive. This makes it possible for a mine, where the ore averages anywhere between $1 and $2 a ton to be worked at a profit where conditions are favorable, that is, where wood and labor are not too high and where transportation of wood and other heavy articles, necessary to be transported, can be carried at a reasonable expense.

At the California King Gold Mines, above referred to, it is estimated that all of these conditions are extremely favorable, that is, there is wood in abundance by rail, and when the forests near by are destroyed after many years, then hard wood can be cheaply supplied by floating it down the river to the ore mills besides everything to be transported down the river. Experts who have examined the mines report that there is ore in almost unlimited quantity at an average from $2.50 to $3.00 per ton, while there are many small rich veins that would run as high as $15 to $20 per ton. These experts further declare that the ore can be mined and reduced by the Cyanide process at a cost of less than $1 per ton. If these figures are only half true it will make these mines the greatest gold producing and dividend properties in the world.

The owners of these mines are not wealthy men, and they don't care to give a large interest in their property to capitalists, neither do they care to borrow money and mortgage what property they have to the limit; therefore they have decided to sell a limited quantity of stock, namely, 300,000 shares par value at $5 per share at the reduced price of $3 per share, in order to raise sufficient money to equip a large modern plant and to begin the operation of the mine on an extended scale.

They will not sell one share of stock after the 300,000 shares are sold, nor will they allow the public to furnish the money. They have borrowed the money necessary to run the plant. They have made a contract for the construction and completion of the power house, crushing plant, the Cyanide plant, pumping works, assay and sorting works, with all of the necessary buildings and appliances required for a thoroughly equipped plant and for the construction of five and a half miles of railroad from the mine to the mill site on the Colorado river, with full equipment of cars and engines. They expect to have the plant in operation by January next whether a single dollar of stock has been sold or not, however, as stated above, they are willing to sacrifice 300,000 shares of stock in order to raise this amount and start in their operation clear of debt with a comfortable working cash capital.

It would seem that this is a fine opportunity for one, who has money to invest to purchase some of this stock at $3 per share before all the 300,000 shares are sold. After that limited amount of stock is sold it seems certain that there will not be a share on the market.

Those who are interested and desire a prospectus or desire further information can communicate with Senator John P. Jones, President of the California King Gold Mines Company, 32 Broadway, New York City.

Among the directors of this company are such well known business men and mining experts as Hon. Willard Teller, brother of Senator Teller, Senator Jones, of Nevada, Ex-Governor Grant, of Colorado, Hon. F. J. Chenevix Tassel, of Montana, Hon. Stilson Hutchins, of Washington, D. C.

At Twenty-two Eggs and Died. Point Pleasant, W. Va., April 17.—Samuel Smith, a young man of twenty-two, living at a lighthouse, this county, on a wagon to-day attempted to eat two dozen hard-boiled eggs. The wagon was made in a saloon, where there was an abundant supply of eggs ready.

Smith began his task with avidity, and soon finished a dozen. The effort to swallow became more difficult, and when twenty-two eggs had been eaten he gave up.

Half an hour later, in spite of a doctor's efforts, Smith was dead.

Cotton Killed and Seed Supply Exhausted. Atlanta, April 20.—A special to the Constitution from Americus says: "Many farmers declared to-day that their cotton crop was either killed or badly damaged by last night's cold weather. The seed supply is said to be exhausted and the problem is serious. One field of 15 acres of watermelons was killed by the cold weather and several farmers reported peaches damaged and dropping from the trees."

Little's Female College continues to receive more applications for teachers from among its former pupils and graduates than it can accept. At this time every former pupil of the institution, so far as can be ascertained, who desires to teach is at work. A teacher is desired immediately for a good country school. Any young lady wishing this place may write at once to Rev. J. M. Rhodes, Littleton, N. C.

Six Inches of Rain in New Orleans. New Orleans, April 18.—The severe rain and electric storm which reached New Orleans last night continued all night and the greater part of to-day with a total rainfall in excess of six inches. As a consequence nearly all the city streets and sidewalks were under water. Several of the street car lines stopped running and many men went to the night at their clubs, being unable to get home. Two houses were struck by lightning and one woman was injured. The damage in the city was slight, but great injury is feared to the early planted crops throughout Louisiana, Texas and southern Mississippi.

STRIKES A RICH FIND. "I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes J. F. Green, of Lancaster, N. H., "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles, that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them, only 10c, satisfaction guaranteed by all druggists.

Contagious Blood Poison

There is no poison so highly contagious, so deceptive and so destructive. Don't be too sure you are cured because all external signs of the disease have disappeared, and the doctor says you are well. Many persons have been dosed with Mercury and Potash for months or years, and pronounced cured—to realize when too late that the disease was only covered up, driven from the surface to break out again, and to their sorrow and mortification and the nearest and dearest have been infected by this loathsome disease, for no other poison is so surely transmitted from parent to child as this. Often a bad case of Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula or severe skin disease, an old sore or ulcer developing in middle life, can be traced to blood poison contracted in early life.

The Sin of the Parents. If it remains smoldering in the system forever, unless properly treated and driven out in the beginning. S. S. S. is the only antidote for this peculiar virus, the only remedy known that can overcome it and drive it out of the blood, and it does this so thoroughly and effectually that there is never a return of the disease to embarrass or humiliate you afterwards.

SSS cures Contagious Blood Poison in any and all stages; contains no mineral to break down your constitution; is purely vegetable and the only blood purifier known that cleanses the blood and at the same time builds up the general health.

Our little book on contagious blood poison is the most complete and instructive ever issued; it not only tells all about this disease, but also how to cure yourself at home. It is free and should be in the hands of everyone seeking a cure. Send for it.

Married his First Love on Third Road. Richmond, Va., April 17.—Capt. W. A. Parsons, of Cochran county, Va., and Miss Blanchie Masters, of Upton Park, N. Y., were married to-day at Morris Memorial Episcopal church, Otsego county, N. Y.

The wedding was the culmination of a romance of unusual interest. Mr. Parsons, a beardless youth, met Miss Masters in 1861, and it was a case of love at first sight. Parsons came South and after the war married here. After twenty-six years of happy married life, Mrs. Parsons died, and a year later Capt. Parsons, while up North, learned that his youthful affection for Miss Masters had been reciprocated, but he was engaged to marry another lady, and the wedding soon followed.

After four years the second wife died and Miss Masters is Capt. Parsons' third wife. She is a great-grand-daughter of Lewis Morris, one of the signers of the Declaration of American Independence, and a great-great-niece of John Quincy Adams, President of the United States.

THE KIDNEYS AND THE SKIN

Mr. Harry M. White, aged forty-one years, conductor Pennsylvania R. R., living 910 N. 29th St., Philadelphia, Pa., writes under date of May 4, 1898: For years I suffered with a heavy feeling after eating and headaches, and sometimes when I would stoop to catch a switch I would get so giddy that I would have to stand awhile to get so I could perform my duty. I took phosphate of sodium, lemon juice, bromoseltzer, baking soda, and doctored with homeopathic physicians and got no relief. One day when out on the road I picked up a circular telling of Ripans Tablets and I thought I would try them. I am happy to say I found relief in the first box I got. I can eat things now that made me sick before. My wife had wind dyspepsia and I advised her to try the Ripans Tablets. She got so much better that I bought a dozen boxes and would not be without them in my house if they cost me two dollars a box. I recommend Ripans Tablets to any one who is afflicted like I was.

There is scarcely any condition of ill-health that is not benefited by the occasional use of a R.I.P.A.N.S. Tablet, and the price, 10 for 5 cents, does not bar them from any home or justify any one in enduring ill-health that is easily cured. For sale by Druggists.

Fifty Thousand Copies

OF TURNER'S N. C. ALMANAC will be issued for the Year 1901.

To advertise is simply to make known, who you are, where you are, and what you have to do. How to do this effectively, and at the smallest possible cost is the problem for you to solve. The failure to obtain desired results from advertising is due to the way some people do it, and they invariably say "It does not pay." The judicious way is to use a medium that has reputation, circulation and permanency. Turner's N. C. Almanac has been the State Standard for 64 years, and has an annual circulation of 50,000 copies, and remains a standing advertisement for a year. Advertising rapidly applied.

Development work has been in progress for the last six years, and more than 10,000 feet of shafts, drifts, levels and cuts have been completed and paid for by the owners.

Upwards of 15 million tons of ore are now ready for the mill all of which will be mined by open cuts at a nominal cost.

A contract has been entered into for the erection of a mill and cyanide plant capable of handling 1,000 tons of ore daily, which will be completed this year. The directors guarantee that this plant will be placed in operation regardless of the amount of treasury stock subscribed.

The net profit after commencing operations will exceed $60,000 a month, and probably reach $100,000 a month, within a year. The ore in sight will supply such a plant for more than forty years.

The property is owned by the directors. There is no promotion stock or promotion money. No salaries to officers. Every dollar realized from the sale of stock goes into the treasury to pay for the plant. Not a share of stock has been offered for sale before.
